First Look at Disney's Next Ships - Rendering

The Disney Cruise Line fleet has the most beautiful ships at sea and the three newest vessels will be no exception. This first, early rendering depicts the magnificent exterior of the newest Disney ships that will elevate family cruise vacations to a whole new level.

In keeping with the distinct Disney Cruise Line style, the new ships will embody the elegance and romance of the golden age of ocean cruising with unique touches all their own. The new vessels will offer more innovation, new technologies, spectacular entertainment and more Disney stories and characters than ever before.

Ingenuity and innovation from stem to stern will amaze and delight Disney Cruise Line guests of all ages. Each new ship will be approximately 140,000 gross tons and each is currently planned to include about 1,250 guest staterooms.

The rendering was revealed today by Disney Chairman and CEO Bob Iger at The Walt Disney Company's annual shareholders meeting.
